LONDON, Feb. 12. - By Cable and As. sociated Press.] Gladstone's friends were very much opposed to his speaking in the House yesterday, as they wished him to save his strength for tomorrow. The fears that he would exhaust himself, however, are groundless, for today Gladstone is feeling as well as ever. He went to church twice and had his usual appetite. The thirty-seven questions which are to come up in the House are likely to delay the introduction of the Home-rule Bill. The whips are urging members to postpone the questions until later, so that Gladstone may begin his speech as early as 4 o'clock. There is every prospect that a great street demonstration will be made dur-ing Gladstone's progress from the house Gladstone from Downing street to the

The Western Union's President Passes Away.

A Tribute from the General Manager of the Associated Press.

Cleveland's Efforts to Have the Sherman Silver Act Repealed.

The Delaware River Rising-New Jerse Mills and Houses Flooded-A Slide in Colorado Kills Six Men.

By Telegranh to The Times. LOUISVILLE (Ky.,) Feb. 12.—[By the Associated Press.] Dr. Norvin Green, president of the Western Union Telegraph Company, died in this city at 3:30 this morning. Dr. Yandell described the disease as catarrhal diarrhœa.

The Western Union wires quickly flashed the news of Dr. Green's death over the land and telegrams of condolence soon began to arrive. The first arrangement of the family was to have the funeral at 10 o'clock Thursday morning, and this will probably be done, but it is not definite, as Gen. Eckert telegraphed that he and a party of gentlemen would come from New York as soon as possible. The services will take place at the residence, and the remains will be interred in Cave Hill.

Dr. Norvin Green was born in New Albany on April 17, 1818. His educa-tion was thorough rather than broad. After a course of study in the medical department of the University of Louis-ville, he graduated in 1840 with honors and soon entered upon a successful practice. The same year he married Martha English, daughter of Capt. Eng-

Like most all young men of spirit in Kentucky, Dr. Green early connected himself with the politics of his State and was several times elected to the Kentucky Legislature, and in 1853 was appointed commissioner of the United States in charge of the construction of a national building in Louisville. While engaged in the duties of his appointment, he became lessee of the United Morse and Peoples' telegraph line between Louisville and New Orleans, and becoming president of these interests, they were united under the name of the Southern Telegraph Company. He became thence-forth identified with the history of the telegraph. He again entered the poli-tics of the State, and was waited on by a delegation from the Legislature and urged to accept the nomination for United States Senator. It is said he United States Senator. It is said he could have been elected but for a clerical error in the count of the nomination caucus. Dr. Green was elected president of the Western Union Telegraph Company April 23, 1873.

A PERSONAL FRIEND'S TRIBUTE. LAKE FOREST (Ill.,) Feb. 12.-William Henry Smith, general manager of the Associated Press, on being interviewed on the death of Dr. Norvin Green, said: "The country has lost a citizen of marked intellectual power and the Western Union Telegragh Company an officer whose place it will be difficult to fill. Very few men of this country have surpassed him in mental endowment, and, if he had not been head of the great corporation against which there is supposed to be a prejudice, he might have been President of the United States—or would, in all probability, cratic party for the place some years The "newspapers of the country are ble and just administration of the business of the telegraph company in which he was interested. As for myself, I have lost a friend for whom I formed a warm attachment." "Who will be his successor?"

"Well, Gen. Thomas T. Eckert deserves to be. He is in the line of pro-motion, has had a successful career and would be acceptable to the business community.'

THE COMING CABINET.

Only Two Portfolios Said to Be Definitely LAKEWOOD (N. J.,) Feb. 12 .- By the Associated Press. | Josiah Quincy, who has been in Washington looking after silver legislation, came out from New York today on a special train and had a long talk with Cleveland and Don M. Quincy left for New York this evening and will probably return to Washington to make a final effort for the repeal of the Sherman silver purchase act at this session of Congress.

As yet no official announcement has been made regarding the coming Cab-inet, either by Cleveland or by the genlemen who have been asked to join the Cabinet. It is practically settled, how-ever, that Walter Q. Gresham has been offered the portfolio of State and ac-cepted it, and Joffn G. Carlisle will be Secretary of the Treasury. These men have admitted enough to remove all doubt, so far as they are concerned.
As to the rumors concerning Wilson S.
Bissell of Buffalo, Hoke Smith of Georgia, Daniel S. Lamont and N. A.
Herbert of Alabama, nothing positive can be learned.

VILLA GROVE (Colo.,) Feb. 12 .- This morning a slide occurred in a wall of rock in one of the tunnels at the Orient mines of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company. Six men were killed and six injured. The killed are James H. Morgan, Hugh Connelly, Mike Norak, Ed Johnson, Ed Carter and L.P. J. Breen. The wounded are Joe Murphy, Tom Walsh, Beh Mainox, Mat Kochner, John Dolphiu and James Smith.

age is feared. There is talk of using lynamite to shatter the high, solid cakes, which form a field of ice fully three miles long. The gorge at Perri-wig Bar is thirty feet high. The lowlands below Trenton are completely submerged. The water has inundated every mill along the river this after-noon, and none of them will open for business tomorrow.

CALIFORNIA LEGISLATURE.

The Work Remaining to Be Done in Senste and Assembly.
SACRAMENTO, Feb. 12.—[By the Associated Press. There are now but eighteen days more left for the Legislature to dispose of about seven hun-dred bills which are still on the file. There are six more days in which bills may be entered, and at the present rate two hundred new bills will be introduced in that time

The bills of genera importance have, in a large measure, been disposed of. The Riverside County Bill and Cam-inetti milling bill, which allows hydraulic mining on navigable streams where it does not interfere with other interests, have passed the Senate, and will come up in the Assembly this week. The Kings county and Pomona county bills will come up in the Senate. The special investigating committee of the Assembly will hear Johnson's de-fense on Monday evening. Mr. Mc-Pike, Johnson's counsel, stated today that some sensational facts will be brought to light.

The testimony of Railroad Commissioners Rea, Breckman and Litchfield is now in the hands of the printer, and the committee will probably meet tomorrow for its consideration. It is expected they will report during the afternoon session.

THE NEW TRIPLE ALLIANCE Its Existence Doubted by Those in a Position to Know. The Extradition Treaties With Russia

France Sald to Be Only a Renewal of Friendly Sentiments.

By Telegraph to The Times. Washington, Feb. 11 .- [By the Asso ciated Press. The publication of the dispatches announcing that there was a hidden significance in the extradition treaties recently ratified by the United States Senate with Russia and Frauce has naturally occasioned many inquiries to the officials here and members of the Senate who would be in a position to know facts.

According the dispatches a triple alliance between the United States, Russia and France for mutual benefit and defense, which has been secretly pending for six years unknown to either the diplomatic or political world at large, culminated in an executive session of the United States Senate two days ago. Carful inquiries from the best source of information do not sustain this interpretation of those treaties. It is asserted there is no pro-vision in either treaty very widely differing from the extradition treaties negotiated with Great Britain, Germany and other powers, and, what is more to the point still, it is said there is no provision in either treaty differing essentially from the extradition treaty with Sweden, which was ratified at the same time. None of the Senators who particinone of the Senators who partici-pated in the discussion of these treaties have since publicly expressed their opinion that the ratification of these treaties by Russia and France as a tacit agreement cementing those ancient bonds of alliance which led France to aid in our revolution, and induced Russia to send a fleet to our naval aid when Napoleon was trying to induce Great Britain to recognize the Confederacy. It is pointed out, how-ever, that though these views may have largely influenced Senators in the rati-fication of the treaties, and though some idea of the same kind may well have been present in the minds of the high contracting powers, there is considerable space separating the renewal of friendly sentiments from the nego-tiation of an offensive and defensive alliance.

DENVER (Colo.,) Feb. 12 .- [By the Associated Press. | Danny Murphy and Jack Kehoe, both lightweight pugilists of San Francisco, were billed for a finish fight today. They met on the prairie about two miles north of Denver, and about 300 people were brought to the scene of the alleged battle by special train. Eight bloodless rounds were gone through and then the principals refused to fight further. It was clearly a fake, and the crowd be-coming angry, demanded their money back or else a finish fight. The manager refused everything and threats of violence were made. The principals and seconds hurriedly left the grounds, and, going a distance north, took the city-bound train and escaped.

Senator Sherman Explains

The New Issue Would Save the Government 1 Per Cent. a Year.

His Proposal.

Preparations for President-elect Cleveland's Inauguration.

Work in Congress-Both Houses to Devote the Remaining Time to the Appropriation Bills-The Statehood Bill.

Telegraph to The Times.

Washington, Feb. 12.- [By the Associated Press. | Senator Sherman was asked this afternoon if the resolution he introduced yesterday authorizing the Government to sell 3 per cent. fiveyear bonds to maintain specie resump tion had any especial significance.

"The legislation sought to be accomplished." said Mr. Sherman, "has no object but saving money to the General Government. The Resumption Act took place at a time when we could not borrow money at less that 4 per cent., and it was thought to be a very success. ful operation when I, as Secretary of the Treasury, was able to float our bonds at those figures. But when the funding act passed no one thought we could issue our bonds at 3 per cent., and the object of this amendment is to authorize the Secretary to issue bonds at & per cent. if he finds it necessary to do It simply saves the Govern per cent. interest and limits the bonds to five years."

Mr. Sherman in a general conversation Mr. Sherman in a generation versation indicated that it would be exceedingly bad policy for the United States to issue long term bonds at such rates of interest as that approved in the resumption act, to simply tide over what he and everybody else knew to be only a temporary exigency. Sherman de-clined to say whether he thought it would become necessary to issue any bonds, though he did not conceal the fact that he believed it desirable to arm the Treasury Department with the power provided for by the amendment. Mr. Sherman intended the act to be referred to the Committee on Finance.

of which he is chairman, and it will probably be reported back to the Sen-ate at an early day. Mr. Sherman could not say what action the committee would take, nor when it would re-port the amendment. In view of the fact that the leading Democratic Senators and Carlisle, the incoming Secreary of the Treasury, have been in conference with Foster, and that Foster's views were concurred in by Carlisle, there is reason to believe that the pro-posed amendment will be favorably acted upon, although the issue of the onds, if issued at all, will be postponed as long as possible.

THE COMING PAGEANT.

Arrangements for the Inauguration President-elect Cleveland, WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—[By the Associated Press.] The work of the comnittee having in charge the ceremonies incidental to the reinauguration of President-elect Cleveland is progressing satisfactorily. Gen. McMahon and Col. Corbin, who have supervision of the arrangements for the parade, are fact that while only three roads daily receiving applications from military organizations all over the United States for positions in the line.

More than a hundred civic organizations, including Tammany, have thus far reported, and it is probable that over seventeen thousand men will form in line on March 4. The Governors of the following named States have noti-fied the committee that they will be in line, accompanied by members of their respective staffs: Delaware, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Maryland, North Carolina, Virginia, Ohio, Louisiana, and Wisconsin. It is almost certain that a majority of the Governors of the remaining States will be present, but as yet they have not noti-fied the committee. Pennsylvania, as usual, will send the largest representa tion of any State. Its National Guard, 600 strong, will be in line. New York will send two crack organizations, the Seventh and Sixty-ninth regiments. and probably Co. A of the Thirteenth Regiment (Brooklyn.)

The following independent organizations have notified the committee to reserve them positions in the line: Georgia Hussars, Monumental City Guards and the Baltimore Rifles, Pal metto Guards of Charleston, S. C., Cleveland Troop and Alliance Guards of Ohio, and the Fort Worth Fencibles of Texas. There is every probability that the inauguration of March 4, 1893, will surpass all its predecessors.

the annual appropriation bills, the army bill, has yet become a law, and from this time on until the 4th of March both houses of Congress will bend every energy to the completion of the remainder of the most important measures. For this reason it is uncertain whether the Senate will be able to carry out the programme of legislation, short as it is, as ar-ranged by the Republican caucus. The Nicaragua Canal Bill, unfinished business, will have to give way to the appropriation bills and the conference reports. The next on the caucus pro gramme is the omnibus Statehood Bill.

NEW FREIGHT TARIFF.

Union Pacific. Northern Pacific and Great Northern Combine. Important Reductions on Rates Made to the Northwestern Tier of States and North Pacific Coast

Points.

Telegraph to The Times. St. Paul (Minn.,) Feb. 12.-[By the Associated Press. | The new westbound tariff, which, after a month's session, the Transcontinental Railroad Conference formulated, was given out today, and changes the entire complexion of transcontinental rates. The new rates will go into effect on jointly by the Union Pacific, Northern Pacific and the Great Northern, and covers the entire territory penetrated by these systems west from Chicago to the Pacific Coast. It has been announced that the purpose in making these rates is to build up the country through which the roads run. All classes of freight acted on and included in the schedule show an average reduction of 20 per cent. on all freight rates from St. Paul to Spokane, a reduction of from 12 to 16 per cent. on Coast rates and from 2 to 7 on rates to Montana, while the only east-bound reduction is to be on lumber, from 55 to 50. The east-bound lumber rate to Chicago and St. Louis remains at 60 and 77½ respectively.

The reductions to Spokane are the esult of an appeal by that city to the Interstate Commerce Commission, and the new rates are even better than were ordered by the commission. The reduction to Montana is a concession to its commercial development. One or two factors enter into the situation which gives it additional interest. The present agreement em-braces only three roads instead of ten, the number subject to the old arrange-ment. The new tariff extends no farther east than Chicago, while the one it supersedes provided for transcontinental business. It is a notable the transcontinental roads were represented during the early days of the conference. Why they withdrew is not known, but no complications ar expected from that quarter. The railroads of the South will be compelled to reduce rates to Pacific Coast points if they intend to carry any transconti-nental business at all. It is understood that the Canadian Pacific, while not directly appearing in the agreement, coincide in the result. directly applies to the northwestern tier of States and North Pacific Coast points. The influence on other terri-

From St. Petersburg comes the news that ten per sons have died from cholera since the cessation of frost. The Mar-seilles people are trying hard to cover up the number of dead, and to quiet the fears of the living, but the worst of all as directly affecting America, is the news from damburg. An Eloquent Address Delivered by Maj. J. A. Donnell.

Incidents in the Life Work of the Martyred President.

A Sketch of His Career from His Youth to the President's Chair and the Tragic End-His Place in History,

As many people as could possibly crowd into the First Methodist Church assembled last night to listen to the address commemorative of the eighty fourth anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln, delivered by Maj. J. A. Donnell of the Loyal Legion. Many people stood throughout the eloquent address, which occupied an hour. A picture of the martyred President rested on an easel draped with the Stars and Stripes on the platform, and a line engraving from Carpenter's famous picture of the first reading of the Emancipation Proclamation before the Cabinet leaned against the pulpit desk.

Rev. Dr. Campbell, pastor of the church, welcomed the speaker and the Legion in the most cordial terms, and Capt. Seamans made some introductory remarks, reading the principles upo which the Military Order of the Loya Legion is founded, and acknowledging, in behalf of the Legion, the courtesy extended by the pastor and the trustees in tendering the commodious church edifice to them on this occasion. He then presented Maj. Donnell, the orator of the evening. The fellowing are essential portions of Maj. Donnell's MASTERLY ORATION:

It is very thoughtful in the companies of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States, resident in this city, t suggest a public observance of the anniand especially kind and generous in both pastor and official 'members to tender for this purpose this commodious church edi-fice, erected to God, dedicated to the Master and sacred to so many holy memories.

For the special honor with which m friends have invested me, the cordial greet ing and kindness of both pastor and people, and the presence of this large audi ence, I at once acknowledge my appreciation and sincerely trust that in the brie recital of some of the incidents in the life of that illustrious character, from childho to martyrdom, some influence for goo may go forth and bear precious fruit in th lives of many here assembled.

it was eighty-four years ago today in the wilderness of Kentucky, of humble and ob scure parentage, that Abraham Lincoln was born. His birth was unheralded and unsung. It is historically true that the family of Lincoln at that date had not an influential friend on earth, either socially financially or politically.

There were no proud and sculptured temples, nor crumbling palaces on the foliaged banks of winding rivers in Kentucky then, to suggest a former grandeur or a former civilization; nor were there railroads, tele-graph lines, telephones or beautiful and gressive cities, which mark that of the present age. The busy hum of industry was not heard; it was practically an unbroken forest, and, unfortunately, the dark incubus of slavery cast its baneful shadow over every nook and corner of that fair

Peculiarly a child of the forest, and in full sympathy with Nature, to him the wo sympathy with Nature, to him the wooling of the trees in the night wind and the warble of singing birds seemed echoes of voices unknown and messages divine.

But the mother lived long enough to instill in the mind and implant in the life of that boy those pure and lofty sentiments which grew with his growth, and which in after years made Abraham Lincoln known throughout the world as the central figure in the world's group of its greatest and grandest. living, tested lovers of freedom.

The one he attended was four and a half miles distant from his father's house, and a cheap, rough, log cabin at that. One log was left out and the space pasted over with greased paper, which answered the purpose of a window. There was no floor, and when the rains came the water ran through the roof down to the ground, and have heard it said that the little ones. and when the rains came the water ran through the roof down to the ground, and I have heard it said that the little ones were often mired in the mud while cross-ling the room to recite their lessons to the "master" who sat near the fireplace, because of the better light afforded through

In 1830 young Lincoln arrived at the sage of majority. In the month of February, of that year, his father removed with his family to Illinois, and in that new and prosperous State began life over again as a pioneer. Abraham remained a member of the household, and, in all the vigor of his young manhood, assisted his father in making a new home.

There were no furnace fires, mines or actories there, and no convenient market arricultural products. There was but coin the leader of that vast host." It is certain that it gave him immediate national fame, and placed him side by side with William H. Seward of New Y Charles Sumner of Massachusetts Salmon P. Chase of Ohio. A series of memorable debates followed in the State of Illinois between Mr. Douglas and Mr. Lin coln, which were listened to by tens of thousands of auditors, and enchained the attention of the Nation -- debates which, in their subsequent effect, were so powerful as to change the fate of millions. Douglas won the Senatorship; but two years later, Lincoln won the Presidency.

Applause.] . . . No President of the United States ever assumed office under such circumstances as those then surrounding Abraham Lincoln

Lincoln boldly declared in his inaugural address that "no State, upon its own mo-tion, could get out of the Union"; that "the Union was unbroken," and "that, to the extent of his ability, he would take care that the laws of the Union should be faith fully executed in all the States.' In my judgment Mr. Lincoln stands pre eminently among Americans, educated or uneducated, who attained a mastery of the english language, and I know of no finer passage in English literature than the closing words of that first inaugural address, as follows: "I am loath to close. We are not enemies, but friends. We must not be penging; though passion may have not enemies; though passion may have enemies; though passion may have strained, it must not break our bonds of affection. The mystic chords of memory, stretching from every battlefield and patriot grave to every living heart and hearthstone all over this broad land will yet swell the chorus of the Union, whe again touched, as surely they will be, of the better angels of our Nation."

may well wonder how that widow in a triange land succeeded in rearing those helpless children to manhood, and womanhood; but this we do know, that God "remembers the widow and the fatherless" and lie must have remembered that widow and lie must have remembered that widow and ler children.

With true womanly courage, but with attle hope of ultimate success, she took upone by one the new burdens of life, and foiled and struggle now, never yielding, never complaining.

But the struggle was of short duration. Like the flower perished. One evening, it was said, there was a new grave among the tombs under the beeches and maples, and that there were two children in the Lincoln household, a little boy and a little girl, who were motherless.

From the day of the death of that mother the first that we know a little and desolation stalked abroad throughout the land. [Applause.] It would have been a happy day for this soon, and after four long years of vigorous, heroic courage and devotion, hurled them back, smitten, routed, defeated.

When the sunshine came back to the darkened skies the United States had changed front, and today it faces toward progress, purity and happiness. . . Nor was it possible for the South to have won in that memorable contest. Why? Because an enlightened civilization forbade it. Every hopeful, cheerful ingrained, believer in American citizenship was against it, and manifest destiny itself could only have changed it. But how great the cost!

That war, which came with the wild fury of a terrible tornado, and that costly sacrifice of human life and treasure, might have been avoided. In making this statement I have ho fear of successful contradiction. I believe that Mr. Uncoln meant all that he said in his inaugural address, especially the declaration, 'I have no purpose directly or indirectly to interfere with the institution of slavery in the States where it exists. I believe I have no lawful right to do so, and I have no inclination to do so. In your hands, my dissatisfied fellow-countrymen, and not in mine, is the momentous issue of civil war. The Government will not assail you. You can have no conflict without being yourselves the aggressors. You have no oath registered in heaven to destroy the Government, while I shall have the most solemn one to preserve, protect and defend it." But the South would neither believe nor trust him. [Applause.]

He was urged to free the slaves, but he hesitated. The people became impatient. During that first year of the war the Union forces met with many defeats, and a bitter cry of anguish went up from a million loyal hearts, "How long, oh, Lord, how long."

loyal hearts, "How long oh, Lord, how long:"
Sadness and gloom and disappointment settled down like a funeral pall, from city to village, from mountain to coast, from heart to heart.

But this sadness, disappointment and defeat only served to develop the true character of Mr. Lincoln. No man can be said to know himself or to have assurance of his own force of principle and character, unless he has been tested by the fires of trial in the crucible of defeat.

The assault on Sumter and the defeat at Bull Run were supreme tests as to whether or not Mr. Lincoln and the Government which he represented deserved success.

[The draft of the Proclamation of Eman [The draft of the Proclamation of Emancipation had been read by Mr. Lincoln to his Cabinet on the 22d of July, 1862.]

He held that proclamation back, waiting for a substantial Union victory, that it might prove a tower of strength to the Union cause, and not a confession of weakness. The defeat of Lee's invading army at South Mountain and Antietam on the 14th and 17th of September was his opportunity. On the 22d day of September, 1862, that Proclamation of Emancipation was given to the world, and from that day we were assured that the Union would be saved, and that the Nation would live and flourish. [Applause.]

saved, and that the Nation would live and flourish. [Applauses]

I beard Theodore Tilton once say in a public lecture that "as long as the war was prosecuted without an effort to crush slavery, the corner-stone of the Rebellion, just so long were the Union forces unsuccessful; but when Abraham Lincoln, as President of his great Nation, and by virtue of his off. Under his ad-ministration immense armies had been marshaled, drafts ordered, and burden-some taxes levied; but notwithstanding all this, and more, he was reëlected to the Presidency with singular and surprising

The soldiers loved him as a father; men voted for him who had, voted for Washing-ton. The result of that election was a foregone conclusion. At the ballot-box, the per registered a verdict. In thunder to that reached around the world, they antic pated the language of Lincoln at burg, and solemnly decreed "that this Nation under God shall have a new birth o freedom, and that the Government of th people, by the people, and for the people shall not perish from the earth." He wa inauguarated a second time on the 4th f March, 1865, and, soon after, the death

I cannot in fitting words portray to you the effect upon the people of that awful tragedy on the 14th day of April, 1865. As the tallest oak in the forest falling causes the earth to tremble at the shock, so his fall caused the Nation to tremble. Stalwart men cried aloud and wept, and Statuart men cried aloud and wept, an women wrung their hands and appealed theaven to know why this great wrong shoul have been permitted. In the midst glowing anticipations, in the presence wife and friends and a crowded assembly wife and friends and a crowded assembly, without a moment's warning, with no opportunity for defense or chance of escape, the bullet of the assassin crashed through the care-worn brain. He lingered for a few hours, the tide of his life slowly ebbing away. In the morning the faithful hus band, the affectionate father, the devoted friend, the honest citizen, the eminent law yer, the wise legislator, the martyred President, the Commander-in-Chief of the Arm and Nawyoff the Inlited States. lay cold it ident, the Commander-in-Chief of the Army and Navy off the United States, lay cold in the embrace of death. But he lived to see the dissolution of the rebel armies, to hear the exultant shouts of our victorious legions, to grasp the hand of the slave, redeemed by the genius of emancipation, to see the Star Spangled Banner floating gloriously over every fort and every citadel that had belonged to the Government: to behold treason crushed, the Constitution preserved and the Union saved. [Prolonged applause.]

preserved and the Union saved. [Prolonged applause.]
Standing by his bier, heart-broken and head bowed with grief, his great War Secretary, Edwin M. Stanton, spoke the grandest eulogy, greater than that of Antony over Casar: "There lies the most perfect ruler of men the world has ever seen." Millions felt that they had lost a brother, or a father, or a dear personal friend. It was a grief that brought the Nation more into family sympathy than it had been since the days of the Revolution.

In the cemetery of that city [Springfield] there has been erected to his memory a monument of granite. I would that it might last for ages, that to it lovers of freedom and loyalty, in the centuries hence, might come as to Mecca, and there in its shadow renew their allegiance to our country's flag and to our country's laws. [Applause.].

The two men who had the largest pertry's flag and to our country's laws. [Applause.]

The two men who had the largest personal following, were most admired and almost worshiped by the American people, in the nineteenth century, were those brilliant, magnetie orators and statesmen, Henry Clay and James G. Blaine, but neither of these could ever attain the Presidency, whom the people loved, was Abraham Lincoln. His name is not only enrolled in history, but it is chiseled in the enduring granite as the Nation's greatest benefactor.

I do not claim that the life of Mr. Lincoln was absolutely perfect, without spot and without blemish," but it was so pure and unselfish, his sympathy for the oppressed and lowly was so great, and the work which he accomplished so mighty and beneficial in its results, that the historian will speak of him as one of the greatest of the world's men, and his memory will linger as a perpetual benedicmemory will linger as a perpetual benediction. [Great applause.]

The report also favored great reductions in the fees of county and township officers. The report was finally adopted, the committee instructed to draw up a bill incorporating their recommendations, and Judge Works was added to the committee. Judge Works will probably go to Sacramento to press will probably go to Sacramento to press the matter before the Legislature. The injunction which has been restrain

The gratuitous distribution of over seven hundred trees for street planting began at the gardens of Miss Sessions Thursday morning. About three hundred more will shortly be received from the State gardens, which will also be distributed free. The ornamentation of our streets with various varieties of shade strees has begun in earnest. The rains have prepared the ground, popular subscriptions and donations have furnished the trees, and in a few short years San Diego will present the appearance of a beautiful park.

It would take columns to describe it in detail. The pyramids of oranges, lemons and raisins, the sheaves of golden grain, the jars of jellies, the long rows of plates of apples, peaches, apricots, pears, guavas, and all the other many different kinds of fruits raised in our county, the mounted birds of all kinds, the tables loaded with precious mineral exhibits, the displays of precious mineral exhibits, the displays of delicate handiwork of all sorts, combine to make an exhibition which canno fail to awaken the interest most blase old-timer. Add to literary and musical extertain gets several dollars' worth of pleasure and instruction for a paltry two bits The ide of the affair is to exhibit all the article of the affair is to exhibit all the articles which it is designed to send to the World's Fair, so that those who are unable to attend the latter may have an opportunity to at least see what our county exhibit will be like. The idea is unique and original with Manager Young, and it is carried out in a manner which merits the patronage of all San Diego. One of the most interesting of the exhibits is the slik display. It is marvelous, and citizens of San Diego must surely be astouished and gratified to know that such an industry has grown up in our midst. The display of beautifully mounted ornithological specimens is also very attractive, while the work on the inlaid tables and the delicate tracery of the china decorations continue to excite exclamations of commendation and surprise. The people of San Dlego could not take a trip through of commendation and surprise. The people of San Diego could not take a trip through their back country any more easily than by attending this exhibition at the Chamber of Commerce rooms.

The Chinese officials on the railway are the nominally responsible parties, and they are Chinese officials, a term which to anyone who has lived long in China sums up nearly all that can be said about them, says Macmillan's Magazine. The railway in all its parts and stages is to them a strange and in-scrutable thing whose mysteries they are slower to learn than their uneducated fellow-countrymen owing minds being already saturated to their kind of lore which has no points of con-tact with the noveltles introduced by the troublesome foreign devils. They detest the whole undertaking, which does not even provide such means of enrichment as any purely native work would do. Custom renders it derogawould do. Custom renders it derigs, tory to them to handle any implement heavier than a hair pencil, and what is necessary to be done by officials is simply intrusted to their servants. It does not argue hopefully for the future of France that her cradles are not being refilled. Recent statistics show that last year the deaths in that country exceeded the births by 9000. Some of the Arizona papers continue to roar about the Arizona Kicker artiles appearing from time to time in the Detroit Free Press. Let the injunction issue!

WHEN we take into consideration the iccess of republican government in the United States, and that few public exenditures are made that cannot be inelligently accounted for, we can indulge in honest pride as we contrast the facts with the official records of France and Germany. Good Out of Evil.

The presence of the cholera in the old world will, perhaps, in the end, prove one of the greatest blessings to freedom. Americans may certainly look upon it in that light if it leads to the passage of necessary laws restricting immigration.

It is not a pleasant 'picture that we have to contemplate as we look back is the habit of the moral bushwhacker upon the past year, and see the vast hordes of poverty-stricken and pauperized people that have come into our midst from foreign shores to make their future home with us. Statistics the year, 161,268 degraded and ignorant immigrants from Italy, Poland, Hungary and Russia landed in this What an element of danger to be introduced and continued? What an unceasing menace will they become to our free institutions? This "sweltering msss of misery" and degradation we cannot continue to absorb yearly without danger to American civilization. If the cholera leads us to bar our gates against this overflowing and illiterate population of Europe, they never will be opened again unrestrictedly. Europe will no longer be al lowed to send hither those undesirable citizens of which she wishes to rid herself at our expense. And this is but just. The American Republic has been built up at an awful cost. Blood and treasure and heroic sacrifice have been rendered without stint or measure, that here human freedom might be established, and "a government of the people, for the people and by the people" might live forever. The eternal years can alone reveal all that the life of the Nation has cost. Time can never measure the greatness of the sacrifice which laid 300,000 sons of the Republic upon the altar of freedom during the late war. With them how many unfulfilled hopes perished; of what a noble wealth of man hood was the Nation robbed. Who can tell what they might have accomplished for the race had they lived on? What triumphs in the fields of science and o invention some of these 'thousands might have achieved had they been peryears and ten? All over the fland are the graves of young men, who loved life, but who loved their country's honor and human freedom more. By the sac

"The new year opens with a serious warning from the new world to the old. Senator Chandler, chairman of the Senate Committee on Immigration. publishes in the January number of the North American Review a declaration in favor of the total suspension for a year of all immigration to the North American Continent. This twelve months' barring of the gates of the new world against the overflow of the population of the old is ostensibly advocated as the most effective method of keeping out the cholera. But the Senator frankly warns us that after the cholera has passed the Immigrants' Gate will never again be thrown open to all comers. Residence and citizen ship in the United States are so valuable that it is highly reasonable that only eligible immigrants should be admitted.

. . Next year, if the Senator has his way, not one will be permitted to land; and after next year the interdict will only be raised in favor of those who can read and write, who have money of their own, and who have a consular certificate that they are not in the cate gory of undesirable citizens. Exclusion of all others is declared to be in peratively necessary for the main tenance of a high order of American civilization and in the interest of the in telligent wage workers. It is the appli cation of the principle of the anti-Chinese law to the Mongolians of the old world. But what an appreciable addition is this to the sweltering mass of human misery in Europe. "There is nothing in Panama scandals or in the German army bills, or in the commotion in the home-rule teacup, that approaches in import ance this ominous notice from the new world, that America can no longer be used as the dumping ground for the surplus human refuse of Europe.

The old world appreciates the that she will be the loser by such legis lation, but no intelligent observer will question the fact of the infinite gain which will result to America and her free institutions.

If there is anybody in the world to whom it is given to know human nature in all its phases, it is the thorough and general reader of the modern daily newspapers. In scanning closely their pages to glean all classes of news of the day, in the columns of telegraphic matter, as well as in all the other departments of the daily journal, what a story is found of human excellence and human depravity. Every day there are incidents reported which exalt men, which lead their fellows to lift their heads with pride at the nobility which is to be found in human character; and then, perhaps, the next paragraph presents some instance of human nature so debased and so degraded that one hangs his head in shame that men have fallen so low, and that in the midst of our modern civilization so much of savagery and beastliness lies beneath the surface.

Just what society is at large, the newspaper reveals. Sometimes the better elements are on top, and sometimes the baser ones reach the surface Then mob-law rules, whole communities are terrorized, and the mutterings of discontent among certain classes seem to be well-nigh universal. But there is always an increased

> The saddest thing about it all is, not that there is so much evil incovered, but that so much evil exists to be uncovered. This is what we should deplore and for which we should seek a remedy. There is nothing to be gained by shutting our eyes to an evil and refusing to acknowledge its existence It is like the blind man declaring that there is no outer world because he cannot behold it.

Some good people who criticise news papers for publishing criminal and other "off-colors' news seem to think that the newspaper is responsible for the fact, whereas it is only the record of the fact that the newspaper has to sponsibility for crime and disgrace is with the perpetrators of it; the newspaper is responsible for truly reporting the facts, that the truth may be known to society.

The wrong which does exist it is better for men to know, that they may grapple with it. How much bolder rould the criminal be if assured that the world would never hear of his misdeeds. The danger of his being apprehended and punished would be vastly reduced if there were no newspapers to reveal his crimes. A few might learn of them, but the few would be powerless to make public opinion and aid the officers of the law to the needed extent. It is the newspaper that has made the world too small for the criminal to hope heritage, as we do when we permit, to find a safe refuge within it if without let or hindrance, the landing would flee from the consequences of his evil-doing, and thus it stands (when old world in the shape of its paupers. free, pure and courageous) as a barrier its criminals and the least assimilable against crime, a conservator of the of all the ignorant population of Eupublic safety and "the palladium of our liberties," as well as one of the most active agents of human progress.

The Old Soldier's Place,

In his kindly fashion Charles Dudley Warner writes for Harper's Magazine, January number, his impressions of The Old Soldier; His Place in the Thought of the Time." Mr. Warner draws a pathetically picturesque figure of the maimed decrepitude, supported by pension and living in a soldiers' ome, from which he wanders now and then on pay days to give rein to army habit and have a luckless "time with the boys." The picture is a true one, and it is sympathetically presented We agree with the Chicago Inter Ocean that in it Mr. Warner unwittingly does injustice to thousands of old soldier who returned from the wars of 1861-65 to resume modestly, uncomplainingly, and with self-reliance the old battles of life they had quitted for a time to become their country's defenders. The Inter Ocean's editorial is good enough to reprint in its entirety. It presents the old soldier to the country in the better light in which he is fairly entitled to stand:

Let it be remembered that war re cruits its armies from all sorts of men Though velorous patriotism in action may cast a temporary radiance over the defects and deformities of nature, character, or the want of it, reasserts itself in peace, and the man who was indolent, shiftless, irresponsible before the war is apt to display the same im perfections, perhaps somewhat exag-gerated, when the stirring, inspiring demands of war are passed. There are old soldiers pitiable to view, some made so by the inevitable misfortunes of military service and experience, others be cause their natures, always dependent and irresolute, were further disqualified for exertion by the debilitating consciousness that the Government show its gratitude by caring for them. But the old soldier who subsided into the old solder was abstaced into dide dependence that he could escape by the exertion of his manhood is the exception, and it is manifestly unfair to present him as the type of veteran the was the sold with the course of veterand the country of the course of the cours present him as the type of veteran toward which the eyes of youth should be directed when the 'old soldier is dis-

Scattered over this fair land, on farms, in shops, in factories, at desks, in the offices of the various professions and callings, cheerity and confidently or patiently and uncomplainingly, earning their daily bread, are thousands old soldiers, many, many of them too proud, or too generous, to apply for the pension to which their wounds entitle them. Let us hear something of these men when the old soldier is discussed; spectacle of the earnest toiler, who shows smiling face to fortune and, not unmindful of the dangers he has passed, hides his scars and moves industriously abreast his fellow-voyagers to the hill-side of peace and the rest that is the reward of faithful stewardship. Men who come out of the war have since earned "the farmhouse in the hills, the cottage in the river valley, the lonesome house on the wide prairie," the loss of which Mr. Warner has his old soldier mourn. Mustered out of service, the soldier followed the bent of his character, became obedient to inherent properties of mind and blood again, and, unless disabled by disease or the loss of limbs, took up much the same thread of life he had laid down, felt the impulse of old or new ambitions, or su cumbed once more to his native limita-

If the war debased the moral charac ters of some, it gave new impetus to the attributes of others, and in the quality of manhood the country gained very much more, than it lost by the war. Men of evil habits, men of mean na-tures, idlers, vagabonds and reprobates often make good fighters, and go fearlessly, adventurously into battle; and it is no wonder if war do not regenerate men from these classes and fit them to be social ornaments and commercial or industrial triumphs when peace returns But patriotism and noble self-sacrifice make volunteers who fight the fight and go back again to the pursuits of life, conscious of having done their duty with all their heart. sense of security in knowing the foe and well enough repaid in heart and soul with the knowledge that duty done was to good purpose. against whom we have to contend. Let us make a picture of the old solwith all of his infirmities pitiful upon him. Let sweet charify reach down her gentle hand to this one—but let Justice clasp the other to her breast in proud embrace—for throughout the land this old soldier is rather to be honored than pitied, gratefully pointed out, rather than compassionately excused; the great, the very great majority of those who went to the front in response to the call for troops were of that stuff upon which, and of which, civilization rears her noblest edifices-true-hearted. self-forgetful loyal, honest, independ-ent men, men who laid down all dear things of life and offered life itself in security, and makes the night as open defense of the principles that make for the glory of mankind.

THE death of Dr. Norvin Green, pres ident of the Western Union Telegraph Company, reported in this morning's dispatches, removes one of the most prominent and able men of this country. To his ability and energy is largely, if not almost entirely, due the great development of the telegraph system in the United States, and especially of the rapid growth and extension of the Western Union Telegraph Company, one of the largest corporations in the world, and of which for nearly twenty years he has been president. It is reported of him that he was the only man in the country that could go before a Condo with in the first instance. The re- gressional committee, answer satisfactorily every question pat to him and vet refrain from telling the very things the committee was most desirous of finding out. It is supposed that Gen. Thomas T. Eckert of New York, the present general manager of the company, will be elected to the presidency to succeed Dr. Green.

AMUSEMENTS.

AT THE PLAYHOUSES LOS ANGELES THEATER.-The Los Angele Theater was packed to the doors last pight with a typical Sunday night audience to witness the initial presentation of M. B. Leavitt's spectacular creation, Spider and Fly. The company is somewhat stronger than the one which presented the piece last year, comprising the charming Putnam twins, in their dainty and modest songs and dances, the stately Louise Royce, with her charming voice and method; Elsa Saracco, the beautiful dancer; Jaguarina; the world's most famous swords-woman; Rose Newham, a wonderfully brilliant eccentric dancer, besides other beauteous and shapely girls who march, sing, countermarch, and all that, in the most captivating and delightful way. The comedian, Robert Bell, caught the house, and was recalled again and again in his topical songs, which were not altogether new, but so well done and so full of character interpolations as to merit applause. Hilda Thomas made a very fetching "Lord Razzle Dazzle," but a severe huskiness of voice prevented her singing many of her best songs. The piece goes with a fine spirit and dash, the costumes are extremely handsome and the scenery fresh and beautiful, all tending to make the attraction one that may be relied upon to draw crowded houses for the remaining three nights of the engagement. besides other beauteous and shapely girls

The Programme for the Spring Race Meeting.

The Most Liberal Inducements Ever Offered by the Association.

All the Leading Horsemen on the Coast to Be Represented.

News-The Weights for the Big Handicaps-General Sporting Notes.

The board of directors of the Sixth District Agricultural Association, which has heretofore been somewhat too con servative in its dealings with horse owners, has at last made a move in the right direction, which will undoubtedly be appreciated by all concerned.

At a meeting held last week it de cided to give a seven-days' running meeting, beginning on Saturday, March 18, and a March 18, and a programme was arranged on so liberal a scale it cannot but attract the attention of owners and trainers in every part of the State. It consists of two fixed events for each day of the to 63. meeting, the others to be over-night events at all distances, which have proved so popular with horsemen.

The stake events have been arrange upon the popular basis of permitting declarations for a nominal forfeit money not exceeding $12.50 in any instance.

The feature of the programme is two year-old racing, and the amount of money offered will certainly bring some of the best youngsters in training in California together. As will be seen from the following synopsis of the various fixed events, the money offered ranges from $1000 to $150 added, and, most of the leading horsemen having already signified their intention of competing belief that the meeting will prove the most successful ever given under the amateur league with Description and auspices of the association. auspices of the association.

Entries close Tuesday, February 21. SIXTH DISTRICT COLT STAKES.

Judging from the entries for the colt stakes advertised by the Sixth District Agricultural Association, which recently closed, there appears to be a de-cided boom in the trotting horse busi-ness, while the pacer is being sadly neglected in this section of the country for, of the five events offered for side-wheelers, not one filled, although three trotting events called forth an aggregate of seventy-three nominations. Of this number twenty-seven are in the mile dash for foals of 1892, to be trotted at this year's fair; thirty-two are in the heat race for foals of 1892, and the other fourteen are foals of 1891 entered in the big race to be trotted at the fair of 1894.

Among the stallions represented are McKinney, Gossiper, Redondo, Guy Wilkes, Red Wilkes, Alto Rex and a number of more or less renowned local sires. WEIGHTS FOR THE HANDICAPS

ATTIRED FOR OUT O' DOORS.

[From Our Regular New York Fashion Cor-Two outdoor garments are sketched

herewith. One is a novel cloth cape bordered with a deep fringe and having long ends in front which to the bottom of the skirt. Bands of passementerie border the fronts and continue upon the cape as indicated. It incomplete without a fur boa and muff. The other is a walking box coat, trimmed with braid. with large buttons and is trimmed with braid of the same shade. The revers are laid on flat, with a split, lapel fashion, over the bust; behind they form a flat collar. The lining is either of checked woolen material or of plain or changeable silk. The loose sleeves are drawn in tight at the wrists, with a turned-back cuff, also braided. The garment is wide at the back, but can be sloped on the side seams so as to show the shape of the hips.

With the costume last described is worn a red felt hat with a small brim slightly turned up all around and edged with red velvet, which at the side forms a large bow of velvet with high loops. The low crown is surrounded by a roll of velvet.

Violet and brown may be safely announced as the two fashionable shades for walking gowns, while green reigns supreme as a trimming color, and is supreme as a trimming color, and is also used for capes, sleeves or portions of dresses. The triple capes bordered with braid are very effective, and there is ample fullness at the back of the skirt, although it is not of the bell shape. The 1830 fashions are decidedly quaint to unaccustomed eyes. The modified styles are, however, very fashhaving a bell skirt which was not excessively full and yet set out at the edge. The bodice fastened with hooks almost imperceptibly, as in the earlier Victorian days, and the full pelerine frill was bordered with fur was of a charming combination of cin-namon-brown cloth and beaver fur.

TWO HANDSOME BALL DRESSES. [Description published in yesterday's TIMES.]

Charged With Petty Larceny. John Conley, a chronic beggar and all-'round vagrant, was arrested yesterday by Detective Bosqui, charged with etty larceny. Conley, who has but one arm, which he never forgets to note by indicating the empty sleeve when asking alms, claims. also that the remaining arm is paralyzed. He is one of the most presuming of his ilk, and is quite cunning in his work. He does not rely upon the cold comfort usually secured from hurriedly passing strangers on the street, but watching his chances, catches his intended vic tim in a crowd—some local hero or newly-arrived blood—from whom he secures attention. Appealing to the fel-low's vanity, and by striking his victim in some wary and wily manner, Conley generally fetches a goodly tip, and with it silver from the attending friends. Of the specific charge against Conley little need be said, except that he, while prowling around upstairs in the Downey Block the other day, entered a Mr. Dial's office while that gentle-man was absent, and took an overcoat, which he sold for $1.50, the latter act leading to his apprehension and subse quent arrest.

Street Superintendent Watson's Force The Council will probably pass a spe cial ordinance at the session today pro viding for the payment of the help em-ployed by the Street Superintendent in excess of the ordinance provisions, excess of the ordinance provisions, which were exceeded by some $616. The trouble grew out of the fact that in making the transfer of the office, there was of course some delay, and in consequence a number of emomee, there was of course some delay, and in 'consequence a number of employe's under his predecessor got in two or three days work. RAILROAD AFFAIRS.

The Southern Pacific Blockade Has Been Raised.

A Heavy Movement of Traffic for One Day.

Congressional Aid to Compel Main tenance of Rates.

How the Great Northern is Revolutionia ing the Northwest-General, Local and Personal Railroad Notes,

There was a heavy tide of travel from the north yesterday. The washed-out track of the Southern Pacific at Bakersfield was put in a condition permitting its use, and the blockaded trains were brought across. Four belated passenger trains came in from the north, the first arriving at noon and the last one at about 6 o'clock last evening. The first three of these trains had an aggregate of twenty-nine cars. Freight trains followed, and they kept arriving at short intervals all night. The trains for the north departed as usual, and today all will be running by schedule. The temporary character of the repairs at Bakersfield will necessitate slow run ning at that point for a few days.

ON LEGALIZED POOLING. Railroad officials, as a whole, are depending on Congress to at least take some action which will compel a main-tenance of rates. The legislation al-ready proposed will answer this pur-pose in a measure, although some of the weaker lines may still brave the law and cut rates. The disappointment is nearly universal that the Congressional committees on interstate commerce have both taken action against pooling. From a railroad standpoint it is the readiest means of securing at least approximately maintained rates. Many officials are disposed to believe the re-omicals are disposed to believe the removal of the penalties from witnesses will bring about as good results as the legalizing of pooling.

The Chicago Herald quotes President Newell, of the Lake Shore, as saving: "If the action of Congress is such as to accomplish the maintenance of published to the Lake Shore will." lished tariff rates, the Lake Shore will be able to secure its share of traffic as well as it would if pooling were legalbasis satisfactory to competitors. In the past pooling has not secured a maintenance of rates. Many lines were interested in carrying all the traffic possible in order that their percentages might be increased later. By removing the results of imprisonment for viocations and the sensity of imprisonment for viocations. the penalty of imprisonment for vio-lations of the law and compelling wit-nesses to testify, there will be less danger of discrimination by cut rates than has existed hitherto."

THE GREAT NORTHERN'S RATE MAKING. Between the Great Northern and the Interstate Commerce Commission the transcontinental scheme of rate making has been broken in two in the Northwest. Late last year the commission ordered the establishment of a basis of rates at Spokane Falls which should be less from St. Paul than the rates from St. Paul to Portland and Seattle. The former and present plan was to estab-lish a low terminal rate to meet ocean competition and then add local inland rates to the terminal rates for interior points. Thus a snipment from St. Paul to Portland takes a cheaper rate than to Spokane Falls, al-though the Portland shipment goes through Spokane Falls, and more than five hundred miles beyond. All this is to be changed, at least as far as Spokane Falls is concerned, on Febru ary 15. Tariffs are already prepared quoting a 40-cent lower rate first-class to Spokane Falls than to Portland from St. Paul. Corresponding reduc-tions are made in the other class and commodity rates. Hitherto Portland and Seattle merchants have been able to get their goods from the East, and then ship them straight back to Spokane Falls as cheaply as the merchants at the latter point could land their goods in their own city. The change establishes Spokane Falls as a jobbing point. This reduction carries out the point. This reduction carries out the announced policy of the Great Northern, and was hastened by the perempt ory order of the Interstate Commerce Commission to put the rate in effect February 15.

LA CANTADA.

Nothing has ever been done in La Cañada in the way of improvement that has advanced this place as will the bridges a Devil's Gate. Despite the effort to bring the valley to the front it has been held back by the miserable crossings at the Ar royo Seco on the road to Pasadena, the nearest town of importance. benefit La Cañada will derive from it is already manifest in the way of real estate sales.

The excavating for the foundation for the bridge across the Arroyo is done. This bridge will be built of iron on the suspension plan, 210 feet in length, and at an elevation of sixty feet from the bed of the arroyo. The other bridge will be of wood, 100 feet in length, and will, cross a ravine leading down from La Cañada. The bridges will be 300 feet apart, and a part of the grade between them will have to be cut in nearly perpendicular granite. To raise means to do this work a subscription was circulated, and nearly enough money and labor secured.

Those having trees to plant are taking advantage of the favorable weather and are pushing the work with all speed. It is estimated that double the number of trees will be planted in the valley this season than was ever planted in one season before. Olives and prunes seem to be the favorites, and of these two varieties upward of 11,000 will be planted.

The Rea - Johnson - Barrington Racket Resumed.

A San Jose Democratic Editor in the Role of Go-between.

Cold-water Consumption, Conscience and Confusion.

A Question of Competency-The Riverside Fight-How Not to Do It-Needless Waste of Time in the Legislature.

[Delayed Letter.] Special Correspondence of The Times SACRAMENTO, Feb. 9, 1893.-The second meeting of the Johnson Investigation Committee brought forth no new or startling developments. So far, only the prosecution has been heard, and, it must be confessed, Assemblyman Johnson's conduct does not show up very Maj. P. L. Barrington, edits the San José Democrat, a sheet recently started, rendered some testimony corroborating that of his friend, Commissioner Rea. He is the gentleman whom Johnson confided in when the latter wanted to borrow $100 on a note. They tried one of the banks first, and failing, Barrington took Johnson to Rea, who, after looking at the note. "I care nothing for the so vency of the indorser; it's a coldlooded hundred dollars that you want. to which Johnson answered "Yes." Barrington was on the stand for two hours, during which time his character was somewhat torn to pieces. He insisted that he had none but honorable motives when he introduced Johnson to Rea; yet, in entire conflict with this, he swore that the language he used on that occasion was something like this: Rea, this is Assemblyman-elect Johnson. He wants $100 on a note, and will stand in with the commission."

Barrington further stated that Johnson had not authorized him to make such an offer, but he expected that Rea would exact such a condition in case he loaned the money to Johnson.

The conversation then became gen eral between the three men, and they talked about politics, among other things. Finally, the subject of the possibility of electing a Republican United States Senator was broached, when Maj. Barrington's pure and undefiled Democracy so revolted that, in disgust, he walked to a sofa out of hearing. he walked to a sofa out of nearing. Here he collapsed. After several minutes of this virtuous attack, Barrington arose, somewhat refreshed, and, advancing toward Mr. Rea, offered an apology for the part he had taken in bringing the two strangers together. Johnson's attorney twitted Barrington on the elasticity of conscience which permitted him to offer, without authority, a legislator's vote, but which "col apsed" when the idea of that legislator's voting for a Republican United States Senator was broached. Barrington, whose mental faculties seemed to have been temporarily under the influence of a stronger spirit, attempted, rather evasively, to justify his course. He said he did not think there was a stronger Dem-ocrat in the State of California than himself, and as such the last act of his life would be to aid in electing a Republican United States Senator. During the two hours the Major was on the stand he drank considerable water, and was noticed that the more water he imbibed the less the spirit moved him and the more his testimony became confused. Had he been on the rack an nger there is hardly any doubt but that his conscience would have be come broken into by the tension. In addition to all this, the Major's mem-ory as to times and places was exceed ingly poor and correspondingly exasper to the committee, although amus

g to the balance of the audience. Rea's attorney, John E. Richards, who also acts as attorney for the Rail-road Commission, also corroborated Rea's testimony in the main, and three clerks of the San José Electric Improve ment Company, of which Rea is vice president and general manager, ise confirmed the main points testified to by their employer.

While all this was going on, Commissioner Rea was having a hard time in the Senate chamber. The select committee, of which Senator McGowan is chairman, was endeavoring to discover why the commission should not be removed from office. Rea tried his best to excuse the commission's shortcomings, but it was a poor effort. Chairman McGowan got after him, and figura tively ripped him up the back. He made Rea admit his incompetency, but Rea, finding that he had been caught, qualified the admission by remarking, "You (McGowan) ain't competent either. Nobody's thoroughly competent, when it comes to that." Rea is a thorough tactician when it comes to a verbal sparring match, but it is admitted on all sides that McGowan is more than his equal.

This morning, in the Senate, Mr. Seymour of San Bernardino withdrew his motion for reconsideration, and the Riverside fight will now be transferred to the House. San Bernardino hasn't given up the sponge yet, for among to-day's arrivals is Judge Rowell of that city, who is considered an adept lobbyist, and is looked upon with a great deal of fear by the Riversiders.

The Madera County Division Bill was read for the third time and passed in the Senate this afternoon without a dissenting vote Thus endeth, to all appearances, the slicing business in the ln the House this afternoon the en tire time was taken up by speeches on Vann's (Populist, Colusa county) resolution memorializing Congress to pass an absolute free coinage measure. Messrs. Simpson and Bulla of Los Ange-les argued in favor of the free coinage of the American product, while Messis. Vann and Adams (Pop.) and Shanahan (Dem.) of Shasta took the extreme

This memorializing of Congress by State legislatures is as fruitless as the shooting of a gun to see whether it is loaded, and has about the same result. It may hit something and it may not. The man who handles the gun, however, usually becomes his own target and usually becomes his own target, and thus do these frivolous and time-wasting discussions likewise react on those who take part in them. The short this proceeding and incidental motions was exactly two hours, or from 10:15 a.m. to 12:15 p.m.

The prime cause of all the trouble was the following bill: AN ACT

AN ACT

Exempting agricultural, horticultural, viticultural and phistorial occupations from license taxation.

The people of the State of California, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. No person engaged in any agricultural, horticultural, viticultural or pastorial occupation or industry shall be revuired to procure any license to carry on such occapation or industry within this. State, and no license tax shall be levied onany such occupation or industry, and no such occupation or industry, and no such occupation or industry shall be deemed or construed to be a business within the provisions of any law of this State, authorizing the licensing of a business or the collection of a license tax thereon.

Sec. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

On second reading this had been amended by striking out the word "pastorial occition."

amended by striking out the word "pastoral in section 1. Of course, this vir-tually killed the measure, as its entire design was to prohibit the supervisors of the various counties from levying a license tax on sheep herders and own-ers. Such a tax is now exacted in different parts of the State. When the motion for reconsideration was made the point of order was raised that it was against the rules. The speaker decided that the point of order was not well taken. Hence the appeal, and the trouble began. A roil-call was de-manded, and before the vote could be announced a call of the House was asked for. Then there was another roll-call on the call of the House. This was successful, and then some member moved that further proceedings under the call of the House be dispensed with The yeas and nays were demanded by the roll was again called. was lost and the sergeant-at-arms was directed to lock the doors and hunt up the missing members. Those who were locked in the chamber began to light their cigars, place their feet on the desks and converse in audible tones. Some even went further and proposed that the champions of the sheep and the leaders of the opposition it out with their fists on the floor of the House, with Mr. Bledsoe, chairman of the Committee on Public Morals, as the referee. Mr. Duckworth of Monterey proposed that the House, indulge in rayer, at which there was a g laugh, in which the proposer joined. Another motion to sus-pend the call of the House was lost, and Mr. Kahn of San Francisco arose and earnestly protested against this frivolous waste of time. Mr. Shanahan of Shasta in reply said it would teach the absentees a lesson they would not soon forget; that the people expected members of the Legislature to attend the sessions and paid them $8 a day for that purpose; but he thought the House had wasted enough time, and would agree to make the matter the special order for Monday next. This was strenuously objected to on the ground that it would only lead to a rep-etition of the present fillbustering, and that the matter should be settled at once. Finally, after one hour's ab-sence, the sergeant-at-arms returned with two absentees, who were promptly

A motion that further proceedings under the call of the House be dispensed with was now successful. The doors were unlocked, and the Chair asked "Snall the vote whereby the amendment to bill No. 447 was passed be now sidered?" The yeas and nays again demanded, and at exreconsidered?" actly 12:15 p.m. the Speaker an-nounced that the motion for reconsideration was lost. This placed the en-tire matter just where it was two days excused.

The above proceedings are an exact recounting of their occurrence. Unfortunately. I was locked in with the crowd and thus had ample opportunity to note fully what was both going on and going off. It also allowed me to calculate that at the moderate estimate of $5 per working minute the Assembly had absolutely thrown away the sum of $600.

As a result of this boy's play, Mr. Dodge of Alameda, at the opening of the session this afternoon, gave notice that he would tomorrow introduce an amendment to the standing rules that hereafter all memorials, petitions, etc., be acted on only at the night sessions, unless with the consent of two-thirds of the members.

The prosecution has made a good showing in the Johnson case, and were it not for certain little stultifications of the different witnesses, it would seem as if Assemblyman Johnson was a guilty man. The defense has yet to be heard and may entirely wipe out the bad impression thus far created. There is no doubt, however, that Johnson was very imprudent, if nothing worse, and, for an honest man, "monkeyed" around Rea's office too much. While the prosecution has proven no real corruption or Johnson's part, there is no doubt that he held dark-chamber conversations with Rea's retainers and satellites. Evidently one was trying to catch the other in a trap, and if Johnson, an uncouth lumber-yard "hustler," thought that he could get the better of Jim Rea, the well - known political ma-nipulator, it is not only evident that his seat should be declared vacant. but that he should be returned to his former occupation and kept there until he learns better sense.

It is now probable that there will be no opposition to the passage of the Park Commissioners Bill in the House. It is understood that the Los Angeles City Coursel has agreed to appoint two City Council has agreed to appoint two of the present commissioners members thus harmonizing matters.

Curiosities in Language. It is curious to note at so late a period as 580 the prothesis of "n" to which a word beginning with a vowel was subject when it was preceded by a participle ending in "n;" hence "In England," pronounced "In Ningland." Such oddities as "a nele"— The short in them. The short session of sixty days passes away and little real business is transacted. The people then get in their work at the next election; procrastinators are left at home, and a new lot elected.

A WOOLLY SUBJECT.

Legislators Corraled to Consider the Sheep Question.

Subtamento, Feb. 10.—The time of the House this morning was again consumed by useless discussion. The question was on a ruling by the Speaker that was objected to, and an appeal to the House was taken, but before the full vote was ascertained the appeal was withdrawn. The time wasted in

Mrs. Mary Nind's Appeal in Behalf of Foreign Missions.

An Eleguent and Powerful Sermon by Rev. Mr. Chichester.

The Present Religious Panie in the Pres byterian Church Discussed-Dr. Thomson's Discourse at the Church of the Unity.

The First Methodist Church was crowded at the morning service to lis ten to the silvery-haired apostle of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society. Mrs. Mary Nind, as she spoke in behalf of the mission cause. The speaker was pleasantly introduced by Dr. Campbell, and began her remarks by saying that we are living in a very wonderful age. She outlined the various enterprises that are being pushed, and considered those who are permitted to live in this period of the world's history as fortun-"It is the supreme busiate indeed. ness of the church to save souls," she said, "and there are now thirty million Protestant Christians and a thousand millions in heathen lands this bright, beautiful Sabbath morning to whom the herald of salvation has never gone, the message has never been given. can hardly conceive of this vast count in thirty years. The world seems almost to have forgotten in the bustle of worldly pursuits the command of our Savior. Go ve into all the world and preach the gospel.' An old Hindoo woman said to Isabella Thoburn, that queen of missionaries, 'How long have on known about this Jesus?' and she answered her, Since my earliest child-hood; and the Hindoo questioned again, ·Did your mother know about him, and grandmother, and your greatgrandmother?' and being assured they did, she put this unanswerable question to her: 'And why didn't you come before?' and Miss Thoburn replied simply by saying, 'I don't know.

"There were 19,000 baptisms in India last year, and two years ago Bishop Thoburn mortgages his salary in Bishop Thoburn mortgages his salary in advance to push the work. The church moved too slowly for him. China is the oldest nation in the world, and the most brainy, and to her we are indebted for many things, and yet there are 400,000,000 in that land reaching to us for the gospel. Do not delay and to us for the gospel. Do not delay agift or bounty, but as pay for services rendered. to teach those of them among you here on this coast. It is a turning point in Japan just now, and there are 40,000,000 looking toward us for spiritual aid. Our missions are not vet, one hundred years old, and there are many hopeful signs. There is a rallying of our young people in schools and colleges for this work, and their will-ingness to go to the foreign field, also an increasing liberality among Christ-tians, and there is a mighty need of it, for at the feet of every Christian woman lie 200 heathen women asking or the bread of life." The gifted speaker closed with an eloquent appeal for aid, which was liberally responded to, about $60 in cash being contributed and nearly $100 raised hy fees of new members.

IMMANUEL CHURCH. Yesterday morning the spacious auditorium of Immanuel Church was filled to its utmost capacity, and Dr. Chichester preached one of his strong, characteristic sermons concerning the present religious panic in the Presbyterian church. The text was Judges xviii, 24: "And Micah said, ye have taken away my gods and what have I more?" This man, Micah, who had been robbed of his gods, represents a certain modern class of people who are now in a great panic, either because their religion has been carried off by some ruthless rob-ber, or is just about to be carried off. A religion that can be stolen, however, is not worth very much, and one reason why so many people are in trouble today is because they have been putting too much stress on the mere human accessories of their faith. This was Micah's mistake. All All of that strange paraphernalia which he sought to worship God-his teraphim and ephod and graven images —this whole remarkable outfit of what he called religion was purely of his owh human concoction. The Almighty had not given him a word of revelation concerning it, and it was, therefore, completely at the mercy of circumstances, and could be swept out of existence at a moment's warning. And so in every religion there are things vital and fundamental and things that are only accidental and subordinate. And the danger is that we shall put too much danger is that we shall put too much stress and emphasis upon the latter. The cut of a priest's robe, for example, the mode of administering a sacrament, the style of a church's architecture and the external form and drapery of a church's creed—these are the things that are often made paramount in religion, and when they are suddenly swept away people feel that all their gods are gone and that the foundations are utterly destroyed. As to the so-called doctrinal landslide in the Presbyterian Church, the Doctor didn't take any stock in it. The alarmists in the church are just now saying some very foolish things, but the present theological panic is in no sense justified by the circumstances. The poor, foolish Micah still exclaims: The poor, foolish Micah still exclaims:
"Ye have taken away my gods. If such rews prevail, or if such concessions are made, or if such men are allowed to remain in the church, what have we left?" A good deal is left, said the Doctor. Not one vital, cardinal, fundamental truth of the Christian faith has been touched. There has been great with the characteristic and a ruthless sweeping away. agitation and a ruthless sweeping away of theological cobwebs, but it is all left, all of Christianity that is essential

t is impossible for a meager report to do justice to such a sermon—touching as it did so many of the burning questions that are now agitating the church—and if all classes of Presbyterians were really imbued with the Doc-tor's wise and tolerant spirit there would be but little danger from the threatened schism in the great church

ENGLISH LUTHERAN,

Rev. M. H. Stine at the English Lutheran Church, corner of Eighth and Flower, streets, yesterday morning delivered the initial sermon of a series of three—"Christ as a Preacher," "Christ as a Priest" and "Christ as a King"—taking for his text the words: "Never man spake like this man." Rev. Mr. Stine began his address by referring to Christ as a prophet, saving: "The office of a prophet is twofold. He foretells the future, and makes known God's will Lutheran Church, corner of Eighth and toward us. In the execution of the second of these duties he really is a preacher of righteousness. It was necessary that Christ should be a necessary that Christ should be a preacher of his own doctrines. If he had committed that duty entirely to his disciples, the world would not today know what really were Christ's teachings. Inddelity would have denied, Christianity would have been perplexed. Now, the only question skepticism can ask is what Christ really teaches in his sermons. The authority of the gospel, with all its commanis and promises, terminates in Christ's preaching. For this reason the divinity of Christ is so important.

Sensible people wish a minister who leads a pure life, who studies the Biole. Christ is from everlasting to everlasting. He is the chief among 10,000 and the one altogether lovely. How important His preaching!

"The subjects Christ unfolded in His preaching are the most interesting in the universe. The being of God, the origin and destiny of man; the nature of sin and holiness, are the stupendous themes upon which Christ dwells. The question was asked by the doctors of law How knoweth this man letters? What he taught could not have been learned from the frivolous Jews nor from the depraved heathen. The sermon here as always proves the man and the man the sermon."

The speaker drew his remarks to a close by pointing out the simplicity and beauty of Christ's preaching.

CHURCH OF THE UNITY. "Competition and Cooperation" was the subject of Dr. Thomson's discourse vesterday morning, his text being taken from Ephesians iv. 25, "Wherefore putting away lying, speak every man truth with, his neighbor: for we are members one of another."

Competition affords civilization some great benefits. Our civilization today with all its glory has come from this law of competition. Every deserves honest wages, and e should do something and keep alive this principle of competition.

The best workers should receive the best pay. The law of patents recognizes this principle by protecting the inventor. Some think that a man should be paid only for his time, but the man who rendered his account, "$1 for the work and $25 for knowing how to do it," put in an honest bill. A doc-tor may take but a few minutes to write

A man that reads books or goes into a profession is called intellectual, while a man that labors with his hands seldom has this name applied to him. It is a false distinction. The brain trains is a false distinction. The brain trains the hand and there is no such thing as low or high when we consider work. The grocer, the architect, the street superintendent each has a trained intellect for his profession. The farmer may know nothing of algebraic formulæ, trigonometry or conic sections, but he is none the worse farmer for that: he stands face to face with God in na-ture and is better off than a man who is a mathemetician and nothing more. PACIFIC GOSPEL UNION.

Two hundred and forty-five hungry and destitute men, women and children crowded the breakfast room of the Pacific Gospel Union at the Sunday morn ing free breakfast vesterday morning, and were made happy by a good, sub-stantial breakfast served by the ladies of the Breakfast Committee of the union and their assistants. Imme diately after breakfast the whole com pany attended the Gospel meeting in the hall over the breakfast room After a rousing fifteen minute song ser vice, led by Mr. Hare, Mr. Read read the scripture from Psalms xxiv, using the seventh verse as a text for his address Following Mr. Read, Charles Young gave a short address on the subject, "The Best Friend." In the inquiry room three men signified their desire and intention of leading a Christian life.

In the evening Maj. Hilton, the super intendent, conducted the meeting, taking as his subject, "Liberty in Christ," founding it on the forty-fifth verse of the 119th Psaim. His address was listened to attentively, and at its con-clusion five persons rose, expressing their determination of becoming Christians.

Nearly half a hundred guests participated; and as they promenaded about the large dining-hall to the strains of sweet music turnished by the mandolin club, the artistic, grotesque and funny costumes presented a curious and striking conglomeration of color and taste. POMONA.

The Orange Crop Getting Ready for Marke -Effects of the Rain

Yesterday was the first typical California day Pomona has experienced for nearly two weeks. The weather has been unusual. ally rainy and bad for the general health of the community, and as a consequence the grip and rheumatism have had things pretty much their own way. But with the return of the good weather good health comes also, and the people's faces are much brighter. The orange crop is getting ready for market very rapidly and the people ar expecting good prices. With the rainfall of the last storm the total precipitation for the season amounts to nearly eighteen

Another thing the rain brings is the disgraceful condition of Second street. If Pomona is to keep up with the procession this principal business street must be paved. With the advent of the sunshine the odor is something terrific, and, when it could be corrected at so small an expense it is a shame that the matter does not re ceive attention. It must be done, and th

G. A. Stewart of St. Louis registered at the Morris yesterday.

The barren peak northwest of the Mission, known locally as Pine Mountain, is only reached by a roundabout and most difficult trail, and strong men, who take a day for the journey, and start out in dry weather, well-equipped and provisioned, consider that they have accomplished a feat worth boasting of. Two fliteen-year-old boys, living in the suburbs of Santa Barbara, broke the record in Pine Mountain climbing a few days since. They started out a little before noon, unacquainted with the locality, and continued to work their way to the top on empty stomachs, over ground and rocks, made slippery by recent rains, reached the summit at sunset, and, refreshed themselves by a hasty luncheon on pine nuts obtained from a few cones which they contrived to knock down from the old pines crowning the crest. They did not dare return by the trail they had taken, and being in a great hurry to make the descent, a haste acclerated by the knowledge that there are mountain lions in this vicinity, they slid down the precipitous north side of the mountain, narrowly saving necks and limbs, and landing in a growth of impenetrable chapparal, from which they managed to escape by doing much of their traveling like monkeys, going from bough to bough of the trees scattered through the brush. It is needless to say that this was a truant episode, and two boys more disgusted with mountain climbing it would be difficult to find.

A Former Resident of Michigan on the So-called "Santa Ana."

An Illustration of the Injustice to a Com munity by the Misnomer-The Roper-Connell Wedding-Notes and Personals,

SANTA ANA

The following paragraph taken from the Evart (Osceola county, Mich.) Review of recent date, written from Orange, this county, by a former resident of Michigan, s an illustration of the injustice done a community by the misnaming of the winds which blow at times over almost all por-tions of Southern California, and which. unfortunately, in some sections of the southern portion of the State are erron-eously called Santa Ana winds:

"Friday, December 30, 1892, my brother and I set off for the coast with a horse and light wagon. It was blowing a hurricane here, but after we got about ten miles south we were out of the range of the Santa Ana wind, and the balance of the trip, which was about twelve miles, was very which was about twelve miles, was very pleasant."

It is altogether probable that nine out of every ten persons in the East who would read the above paragraph would form the opinion that the Santa Ana wind is a disagreeable feature of California, originating and peculiar only to the immediate vicinity surrounding and contiguous to the city of Santa Ana. Such is far from being the case, as is well known by the intelligent Californian. While it is generally admitted that the winds are benedicial to health, purifying the atmosphere and destroying germs—of disease, it is nevertheless a fact, that they are an exceedingly unpleasant feature, especially in the fall before—the rains have laid the dust. Their origin may be traced to the desert, and, sweeping, as they do, through the Santa Ana Cañon in the mountains back of San Bernardino, take the name of Santa Ana by reason of their passage through the Santa Ana mountain cañon, which is shaped very much like a large funnel, and seeming to catch the wind which rushes into its entire length before reaching the valley. Many ignorant people believe, and designing real estate dealers in portions of the southern counties make believe, that the winds are peculiar only to the city of Santa Ana and Orange county, and as a proof of their statements refer to the name of the wind as having been derived from the name or the city of Santa Ana, to which locality it must originate as a matter of course. This is a gross injustice to Santa Ana and Orange county, and the name should no longer be used. It is a desert wind and should be so called. It is not a Santa Ana wind any more than it is a Los Angeles. San Bernardino, Riverside or, San Dlego wind. It can consistently be called a "desert" wind or "norther," as some of the mewspapers of San Bernardino county have already begun to call it. In any event, it should not be localized so as to reflect upon any one locality more than it is a Copt. Parke S. Roper and Miss Leolita Capt. Parke S. CHINESE NEW YEAR

The Heathen Making Great Preparation for Their Annual Celebrat That holiday season so dear to the hearts of the Mongolians, the Chinese New Year, is near at hand, and for the next two weeks the Celestials will suspend business and do nothing but feast apon baked pig and enjoy themselves.

The new year commences on Wednesday morning, and from now on until that time the preparations for the celebration will go merrily forward.

The pig-tailed humans who work as laborers in the country have already begun to flock into town to spend the fes-tive season with their city brethren, and exchange some small part of their hoarded cash for real Chinese delight. Yesterday the shopkeepers of China-town opened up their store of New Year's goods and spread them out in display before the covetous eyes of their fellow-countrymen for future purchase, and the less-prosperous hucksters built their little booths along the sidewalk and dingy passageways, and then sat down, in wait for customers, blinkrates, ctc., can ac Spring street, or ad ress E. S. BABCOCK, Manager. ing their bias-cut eyes, heavy with the effect of many an opium fume, like a sleepy cat in the sunshine.

The wares on sale form truly a curiosity shop. Inside the dimly-lighted stores gaudy strips of blue, yellow and red calico, or even silk, are hung up, while littered around in the labyrinth of corners and bunk-like porticoes are boxes of tiny Tangerine oranges and packages of pressed cake, and other Oriental sweetmeats. Then, too, there are piles of fantastically-formed canwhich look for all the world like layers of dried codfish. To complete the decorative effect, large bowls of Chinese lilies, with nothing but pebbles and water about their bulbous roots, flower and flourish wonderfully in the overpowering and sickening air of the poorly ventilated compartments.
Outside, on the stands, great heaps of greasy nuts, or "dow foo," as the heathens call them, are heaped up on the wide trays, alongside the water-cress and mustard stems.

Of all things the Chinamen abominate nost salt meat stands alone. In fact, salt with them is an almost unknown ingredient of cookery. Therefore, in the butcher shops no hams, bacon or salt pork is found. In lieu of these fatty substances carcasses of hogs roasted whole are hung along the row of hooks in the butcher shop of China-town, and the unsalted New Year's meat is sawed or cut off in chunks to suit the appetites and purses of the purchasers, and chopped up fine with a cleaver, bones and all.

The Chinamen say that they have more money this year than last, and expect to have a great time.

A WORTHLESS CHECK.

A Saloon Man Caught for Twenty-five Dollars.

The "check-shovers" are still getting in their work from time to time, although but little is heard of them, the victims generally preferring to pocket their losses, which are for small amounts, rather that go to the annoyance of prosecuting the sharpers. One of the latest victims is Bauer, the Spring street saloon man, who was caught for $25. The strangest part of the transaction is that Bauer does not know the man who gave him the check, although he took it, handed over the cash, and then turned the check over to W. C. Furrey & Co. in payment of a bill. The check went to the clearing-house in the regular course of business, and was, of course, retuined to Mr. upon Bauer to make it good, and when the beer man found that he had been swindled the fun commenced. Bauer at first refused to take up the check, claiming that he was not responsible for it, but when his attention was called to his indorsement, and he had taken legal advice, he demanded that the check be protested in order to have the check to have the check with the check be protested out. matter straightened out. Mr. Furrey explained that this would only increase the expense and do no good, but Bauer insisted that he would not take up the check unless this form was gone through with. He was, of course, accommo-dated, with the result that in addition to having to take up the worthless check he was also compelled to pay the notary's fees, which amounted to some $10 or $12. Bauer is now looking for the man who passed the check on him, and if he can find him there will be received for the feel by trouble for the fellow.

We have had little to say to you during the past week except on the topic of shoes, which we thought very appropriate in view of the Silks, Dress Goods, Fancy Goods, Laces, Em- frequency of J. Pluvius. The old maxim "Actions speak louder than words" will be very forcibly illustrated if after reading our address today you will come into our stores tomorrow and see it logically expounded.

We have inaugurated a new system whereby every department in the house is kept separate and distinct at if it were an exclusive store of its own. Having completed our stock-taking, we have taken up the stock in each department, not at what it cost us, or at its value, but at a reduction of thousands of dollars in each so as to proceed upon an equable basis and ho d the management responsible for their departments and show a profit one year hence. By this arrangement the stock in our house in one day has depreciated in value $25,000. Aside from this we have the greatest values in merchandise, generally speaking, that we have ever experienced in our business career. Our business is shooting forward daily, and nothing can check it, for we are satisfied that the qualities are not excelled and our prices are not equalled.
